KING COUNTY HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES TRANSFORMATION PLAN

Transformation Plan Timeline

Improving HHS system performance through work in two domains

Individual-Level Strategy

A focus on adults cycling in and out of the jail and with multiple needs

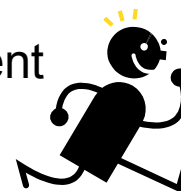

From:

- In and out of jail and hospitals
- Housing instability
- Poorly managed medical & behavioral health conditions;
- Missed prevention opportunities
- Multiple (or no) case managers
- Poor handoffs and transitions of care
- Poor experience for clients

To:

- The person and their goals at the center → whole person
- One plan of care
- Trauma-informed approach
- Team coordinates needs across housing, jobs, transportation, food, medical, dental, behavioral health, and more.
- ↓ justice & crisis involvement
- ↑ health, ↑ housing
- ↓ overall costs
- ↑ client satisfaction
- Achievement of full potential

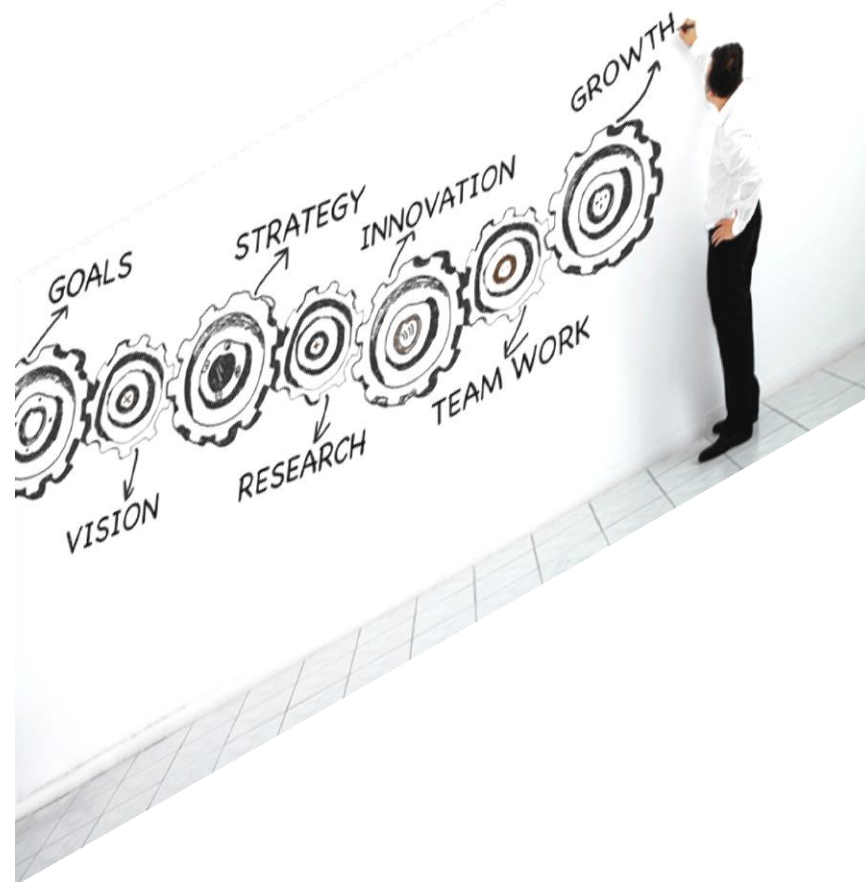

Individual-level strategy: What's Next?

Convene Design Team to include systems that touch the defined population as well as consumers themselves

Use LEAN process to jointly understand the client's journey today – and what is the future state we are trying to achieve

Re-orient systems, programs and policies to achieve better outcomes; carry out prioritized workflow and policy changes

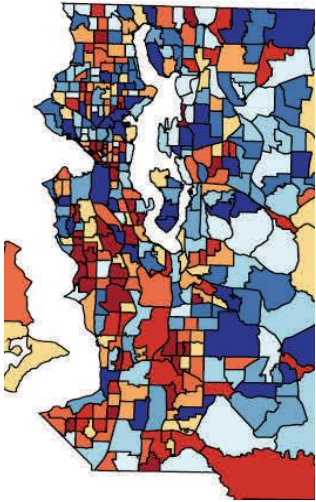

Communities of Opportunity

Improve health, social, racial, and economic equity

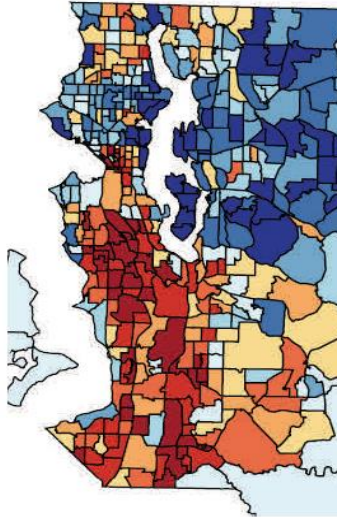

Living Cities Integration Initiative to help support infrastructure, learning community, financial innovation

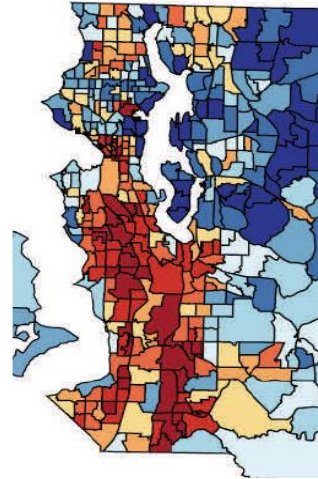

Poor Housing

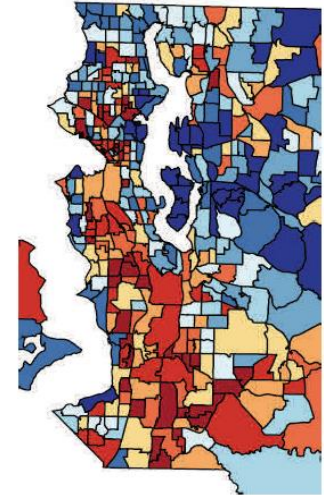

Tobacco Use

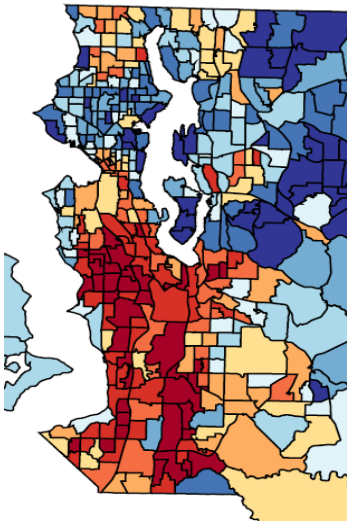

Frequent Mental Distress

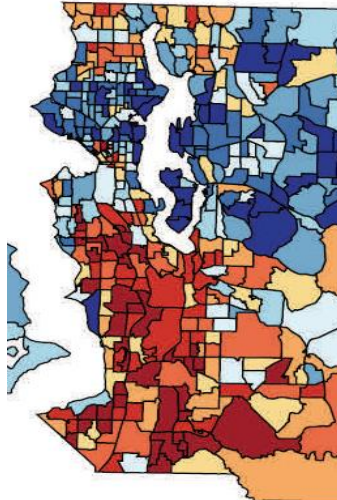

Adverse Childhood Experiences

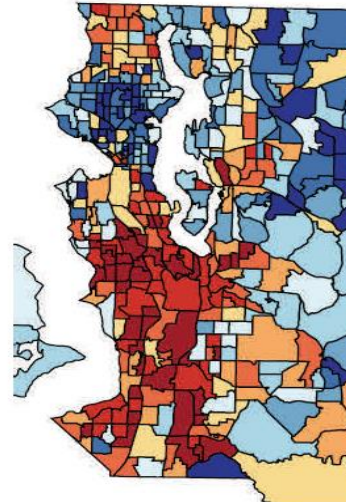

Lack of Physical Activity

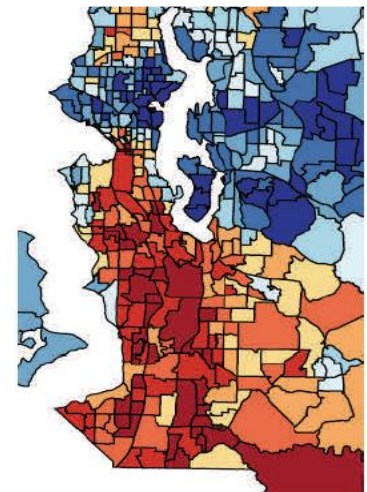

Obesity

Diabetes

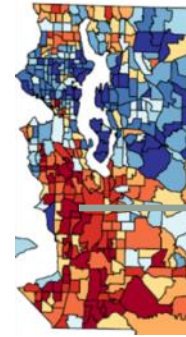

Preventable Hospitalization

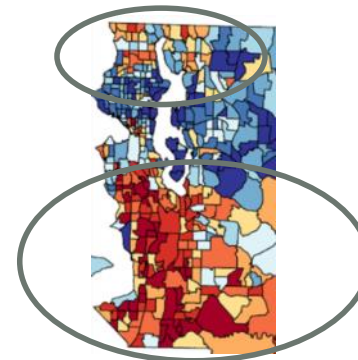

Communities of Opportunity: What's Next?

Through a mutual selection process, identify specific cities/neighborhoods (3-ish) for focused investment

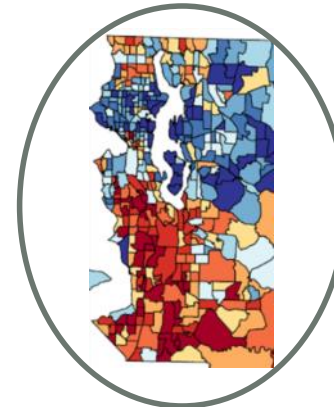

Place A
Place B
Place C

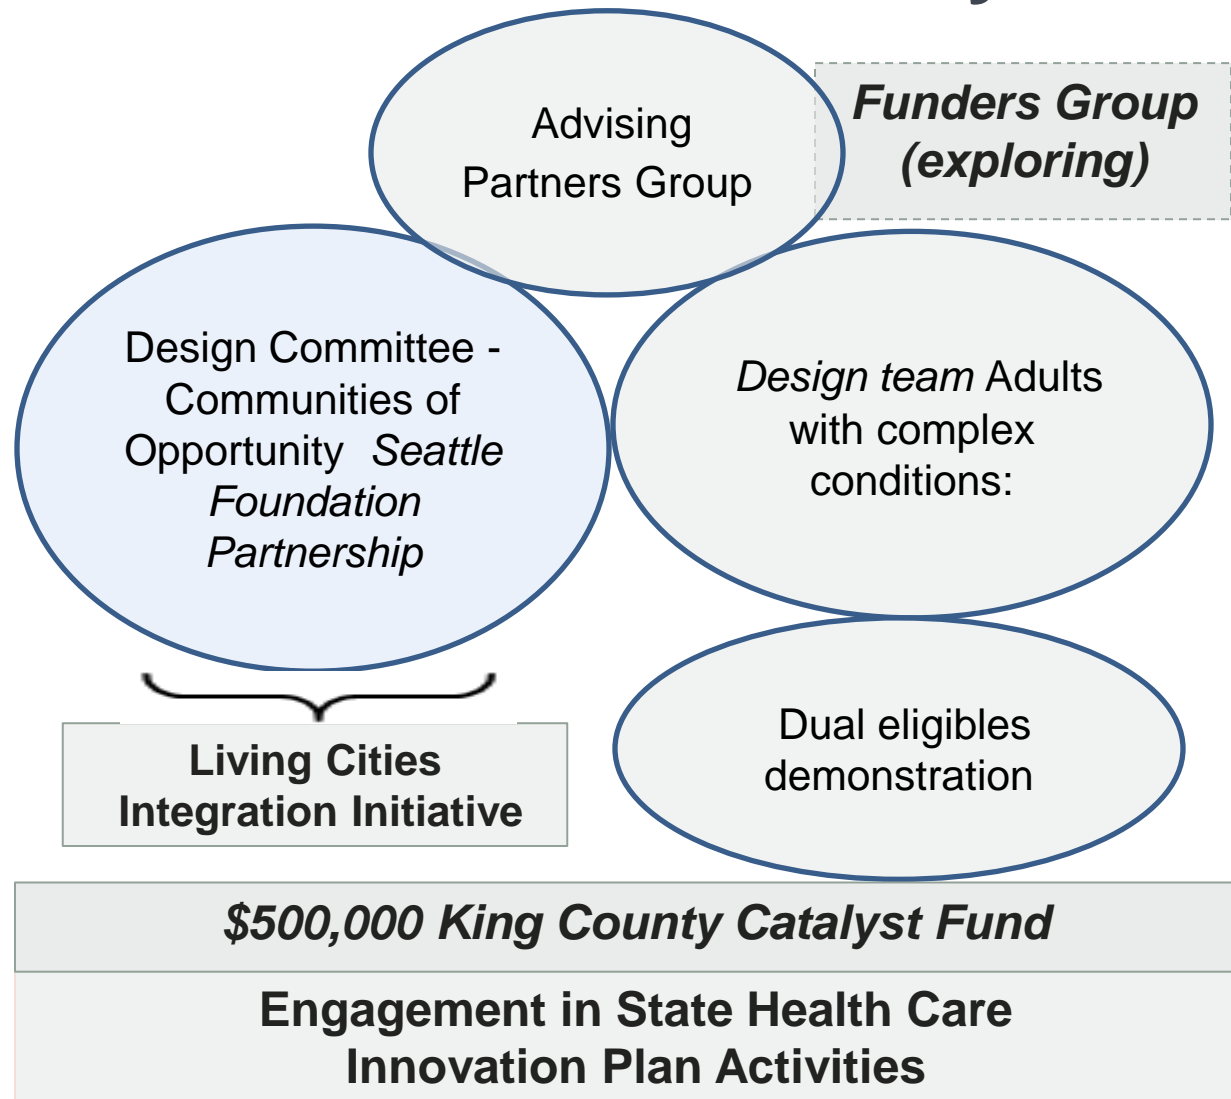

Concurrently, work on policy and system change activities that have cross-cutting benefits across “red” areas – may benefit A, B, & C – but broader, too

Concurrently, work on toolkits and learning community structure that can support all areas of the county – every community has room to improve, we can learn from each other
